Electoral Protest And Democracy In The Developing World:

Electoral Protest and Democracy in the Developing World Emily Beaulieu, 2014-03-10 This book shows that the third wave of democracy has been accompanied by a worldwide wave of opposition initiated election related protests Such electoral protests result from a failure on the part of incumbent and opposition elites in the developing world to negotiate acceptable terms of electoral conduct and their consequences for democracy depend on the context in which they occur Where election boycotts receive international support they increase the probability of democratic reform but where support is primarily domestic there is a higher probability of authoritarian backsliding Based on an extensive new data set covering nearly thirty years of electoral protest and election related reform in the developing world this book explores the causes of different types of electoral protest and their consequences for democracy Statistical analysis and case studies provide readers with a complete picture of the dynamics surrounding developing world elections protest and democratization

Electoral Commissions and Democratization in Africa Nicholas Kerr, 2024-09-04 Why do some countries hold elections that meet global democratic standards while other countries do not Electoral Commissions and Democratization in Africa makes a novel contribution to this question In a departure from the typical story about the boring administrative tasks that electoral commissions carry out and their impact on international observers assessments of election quality Kerr argues that electoral commissions provide valuable information that helps politicians and citizens resolve uncertainties about electoral fraud and administrative irregularities Whereas previous research focuses on the institutional design of electoral commissions this book privileges their actual performance and focuses on two attributes autonomy and capacity By serving an informational role the autonomy and capacity of electoral commissions influences how citizens and elites think about and behave during elections This includes whether political elites and citizens participate in elections engage in electoral fraud and violence accept electoral outcomes and express confidence in elections These attitudes and behaviors in turn influence whether elections meet democratic standards election quality and whether political elites and citizens regard election processes as acceptable election legitimacy This book brings together evidence from public opinion surveys elite surveys field research and cross national databases to give an unusually rich empirical exploration of the dynamics of elections and democracy in sub Saharan Africa since the 1990s with a focused case study of Nigeria Electoral Commissions and Democratization in Africa will be appealing to scholars and policymakers interested in democratization and elections Oxford Studies in African Politics and International Relations is a series for scholars and students working on African politics and International Relations and related disciplines Volumes concentrate on contemporary developments in African political science political economy and International Relations such as electoral politics democratization decentralization gender and political representation the political impact of natural resources the dynamics and consequences of conflict comparative political thought and the nature of the continent s engagement with the East and West Comparative and mixed methods work is particularly encouraged as is interdisciplinary research and work that considers ethical issues relating to the study of Africa Case studies are welcomed but should demonstrate the broader theoretical and empirical implications of the study and its wider relevance to contemporary debates The focus of the series is on sub Saharan Africa although proposals that explain how the region engages with North Africa and other parts of the world are of interest Series Editors Nic Cheeseman Professor of Democracy and International Development University of Birmingham Peace Medie Senior Lecturer in Gender and International Politics University of Bristol and Ricardo Soares de Oliveira Professor of the International Politics of Africa University of Oxford

Voice and Inequality Carew Boulding, Claudio A. Holzner, 2021-05-13 Understanding who participates in politics and in which kinds of activities is central to understanding how democracies work This book offers the first large scale empirical analysis of political participation in 18 Latin American countries with a focus on understanding the political behavior of the region s poorest citizens Poor people in Latin America vote protest and contact government officials at surprisingly high levels approaching or exceeding levels of activism of individuals with significantly more resources and schooling To explain this puzzling finding we argue that key institutions of democracy including civil society political parties and competitive party systems are especially important for understanding the activism of poorer citizens and as a result have profound effects on inequalities in political participation

Election Watchdogs Pippa Norris, Alessandro Nai, 2017-06-16 Recent years have seen growing concern about vote fraud election rigging and maladministration When problems come to light however is anyone held to account and are effective remedies implemented This volume collects essays from international experts who compare alternative approaches and apply these methods to evaluate the quality of elections in several areas including the United States Sub Saharan Africa and Latin America Election Watchdogs Transparency Accountability and Integrity presents new insights into the importance of diverse actors who promote electoral transparency accountability and ultimately the integrity of electoral governance

Autocratization in Contemporary Uganda Moses Khisa, 2024-01-11 Autocratization in Contemporary Uganda analyses two interrelated outcomes autocratisation manifest in the deepening of personalist rule or Musevenism and the regime resilience that has made Museveni one of Africa s current longest surviving rulers How has this feat been possible and what has been the trajectory of Museveni s increasingly autocratic rule Surveying that trajectory since 1986 the book takes as its primary focus the years since 2005 bringing to the fore the autocratic turn placing it within a broader comparative lens and enriching it with comparative references to cases outside of Uganda While positing the notion of autocratic adaptability as a defining hallmark of Museveni s rule the book examines the factors and forces that have made that adaptability possible analysing the dynamics around three keys themes institutions resources and coalitions Through empirical research each chapter seeks to demonstrate how either one or two of these three variables have functioned in propelling autocratization and assuring regime resilience producing theoretical and and comparative implications that reach beyond Uganda

International Migration Jonathon Wayne Moses, 2006 Jonathon Moses makes moral political and economic arguments in favor of the free mobility of human beings across national borders Pointing to the importance of immigration to the success of many nations he shows that Europe itself now faces a falling population and has over the past fifty years actively encouraged huge immigration from other countries There is near consensus across the political spectrum that the free movement of goods and free movement of capital are good for economies and therefore should apply to people as well

Non-party Actors in Electoral Politics David M. Farrell, Rüdiger Schmitt-Beck, 2008 The contemporary electoral process is in many ways far more complex than it used to be This book focuses on the growing involvement of non-party actors in the process of selecting candidates as well as involvement during the campaign itself These actors interest groups individual citizens even certain political institutions operate in the campaign environment independently of the parties and their candidates They are not seeking to attain public office nevertheless they interfere in the electoral process in growing numbers and with increasing intensity For the most part they seek to influence electoral outcomes to their advantage and yet on occasions for less selfish reasons such as increasing the quality of the electoral process itself Encompassing a broad range of countries including several old democracies the US Germany Britain Norway Denmark Belgium Israel and others and one new democracy Romania and combining extensive surveys with detailed case studies of recent elections the chapters in this volume take stock of this new feature in the contemporary electoral process along with its origins forms and consequences
