Military Strategy of Great Powers Håkan Edström, Jacob Westberg, 2021-09-20 This book explores the military strategies of the five system determining great powers during the twenty first century The book s point of departure is that analyses of countries defence strategies should acknowledge that states come in various shapes and sizes and that their strategic choices are affected by their perceptions of their position in the international system and by power asymmetries between more and less resourceful states This creates a diversity in strategies that is often overlooked in theoretically oriented analyses The book examines how five major powers the United States China the United Kingdom France and Russia have adjusted their strategies to improve or maintain their relative position and to manage power asymmetries during the twenty first century It also develops and applies an analytical framework for exploring and categorising the strategies pursued by the five major powers which combines elements of structural realism with research on power transition theory and status competition The concluding chapter addresses questions related to stability and change in the present international system This book will be of interest to students of strategic studies foreign policy and International Relations

Work-Life Balance: Essential or Ephemeral? Andreas Schwingshackl, Stephania A. Cormier, Kanwaljeet J. S. Anand, 2017-09-28 Burn out and suicide rates among physicians and scientists in academic medicine are at an all time high and jeopardize the future of our entire profession In the last 4 years alone burn out rates among physicians have increased by 25% In a recent 2017 Medscape publication burn out rates in Critical Care physicians ranked in 9th place and Pediatricians ranked 13th among 27 subspecialties Astonishingly over 50% of the participants reported burn out symptoms with clear race and gender disparities While men generally report higher burn out rates than women it is important to emphasize that response rates from women in these surveys were notoriously low and may not represent the complete picture These numbers are even more dismal for tenured academic faculty at research extensive universities In this group emotional exhaustion i e high burn out is reported at 35% with a clear association with age and lower burn out levels in the older tenured faculty While no gender or racial ethnic differences were found in this particular group higher levels of burn out were identified in individuals with financial responsibilities beyond a spouse and child While it is comforting to note the increasing public interest and research activities in this field successful approaches to ameliorate the burden and consequences of physician burn out are still inadequately developed Academic centers increasingly offer some type of work life balance program to their employees but unfortunately these programs are frequently adopted from corporate business models and remain largely ineffective in the academic environment It should be evident to most administrators that the stressors of academic clinicians and scientists substantially differ from those of corporate employees Based on these observations and over 75 years of combined experience in academic medicine amongst the three editors of this Research Topic we collected 26 manuscripts from 22 authors at different career stages and different genders ethnicities marital status and subspecialties to identify and stratify common and specific stressors and therapeutic approaches to ameliorate burn out and achieve work life balance in academic medicine We are confident that each reader will identify with at least one if not several of the authors opinions experiences and approaches to attain greater work life balance and thereby avoid the consequences of burn out in modern academic medicine

Randomized Control Trials in the Field of Development

Florent Bédécarrats, Isabelle Guérin, François Roubaud, 2020-09-17 In October 2019 Abhijit Banerjee Esther Duflo and Michael Kremer jointly won the 51st Sveriges Riksbank Prize in Economic Sciences in Memory of Alfred Nobel for their experimental approach to alleviating global poverty But what is the exact scope of their experimental method known as randomized control trials RCTs Which sorts of questions are RCTs able to address and which do they fail to answer The first of its kind Randomized Control Trials in the Field of Development A Critical Perspective provides answers to these questions explaining how RCTs work what they can achieve why they sometimes fail how they can be improved and why other methods are both useful and necessary Bringing together leading specialists in the field from a range of backgrounds and disciplines economics econometrics mathematics statistics political economy socioeconomics anthropology philosophy global health epidemiology and medicine it presents a full and coherent picture of the main strengths and weaknesses of RCTs in the field of development Looking beyond the epistemological political and ethical differences underlying many of the disagreements surrounding RCTs it explores the implementation of RCTs on the ground outside of their ideal theoretical conditions and reveals some unsuspected uses and effects their disruptive potential but also their political uses The contributions uncover the implicit worldview that many RCTs draw on and disseminate and probe the gap between the method's narrow scope and its success while also proposing improvements and alternatives Without disputing the contribution of RCTs to scientific knowledge Randomized Control Trials in the Field of Development warns against the potential dangers of their excessive use arguing that the best use for RCTs is not necessarily that which immediately springs to mind Written in plain language this book offers experts and laypeople alike a unique opportunity to come to an informed and reasoned judgement on RCTs and what they can bring to development

Gender Roles in the Future? Theoretical Foundations and Future Research Directions Alice H. Eagly, Sabine Sczesny, 2019-11-01 The study of gender is deservedly a major focus of research in the discipline of psychology in general and social psychology in particular Interest in the topic increased sharply in the 1970s with the flowering of the feminist movement and research has continued to advance since that time In 1987 Alice Eagly formulated Social Role Theory to explain the behavior of women and men as well as the stereotypes attitudes and ideologies that are relevant to sex and gender Enhanced by several extensions over the intervening years this theory became one of the pre eminent if not the central theory of gender in social psychology Also over the last decades social psychologists have developed a variety of related approaches to understanding gender including for instance theories devoted to stereotyping leadership status backlash lack of fit to occupational roles social identity and categorization Reflecting these elements this e Book includes articles that encompasses a wide range of themes pertaining to sex and gender In these papers the concept of social roles appears often as central integrative concept that links individuals with their social environment These articles thereby complement social role theory as the authors reach out to build an extended theoretical foundation for gender research of the future
