A New Generation of African Writers Brenda Cooper, 2013 Brenda Cooper examines the work of the new generation of African writers who have placed migration as central to their writing There is a growing interest in books by writers of African origin These authors have often grown up or passed their early adult years out of Africa The Orange Prize for Fiction was awarded in London 2007 to Chimamanda Ngozie Adichie's Half of a Yellow Sun and the Caine Prize for African Writing has introduced new writers such as Leila Aboulela, Biyi Bandele and Chimamanda Adichie herself to agents and publishers This examination of the extraordinary work which has recently appeared is therefore very timely Migration is a central theme of much African fiction written in English Here Brenda Cooper tracks the journeys undertaken by a new generation of African writers their protagonists and the solid objects that populate their fiction to depict the material realities of their multiple worlds and languages She explores the uses to which the English language is put in order to understand these worlds and demonstrates how these writers have contested the dominance of colonising metaphors The writers' challenge is to find an English that can effectively express their many lives languages and identities BRENDA COOPER was for many years Director of the Centre for African Studies and Professor in the English department at the University of Cape Town where she is now an Emeritus Professor In 2009 she moved to Salford where she is an Honorary Research Associate at the University of Manchester She has published widely on African fiction and postcolonial literary theory Southern Africa South Africa Botswana Namibia Lesotho and Swaziland University of KwaZulu Natal Press Harper's Bazaar, 1911 Bibliotherapy: Books to Guide You Through Every Chapter of Life Molly masters, 2024-09-12 A beautiful thoughtful guide to finding your perfect next read no matter what life's throwing at you from the founder of Aphra's a.k.a. your inclusive AF feminist book club *Controversy on the artificial tympanum.
